The following, taken from an exchange, is wholesome advice, and should be read and heeded by every boy : "Boys and young men sometimes start out into life with the December 24th, 1883, by J. L. Bryan, Trial idea that one's success depends on sharpness and chicanery. They imagine if a man is able to 'get the best of a bargain,' no matter by what deceit and meanness he carries his point, that his prosperity is assured. This is a mistake. Enduring prosperity cannot be founded on cunning and dishonesty. The tricky and deceitful man is sure to fall a victim, sooner or later, to the influences which are forever working against him. The future of that young man is safe who eschews overy shape of double dealing, and lays the foundation of his career in the enduring principles of everlasting truth."

The cold wave which set in on the night of the 31st ult. continued without much variation until last Saturday afternoon, when there was a change. As the night set in, everybody began to realize that Winter had surely come. It gradually grew colder during the night, and when Sunday morning dawned it was generally admitted that it had been the coldest night experienced in this section in several years. Early the Telephone. in the morning the thermometer in saveral dwelling houses stood 7 degrees above zero, and one gentleman said his thermometer, hanging in the hall, got down to 5 degrees. Doubtless out in the open air the mercury would have gone to zero. The ponds in and around the city were frozen over, the ice on some of them being thick enough to hold up a person's weight. In many households the oil in the lamps were frozen. The sun shone out Sunday, but it did not have much effect on the ice or frozen ground. It was extremely cold throughout Sunday and Monday. On Monday night a heavy fall of snow and sleet occurred, and from the present state of the weather it is likely to remain on the ground for several days. The cold wave seems to have been general. Reports from all over the State say that it has been the coldest weather felt in many years. In some of the Northwestern States it is reported that the thermometer stood from thirty to forty-five degrees below zero. A terrible snow storm is also reported from the same sections.

A Home Enterprise.

Several months ago we made mention of the fact that a Sash, Blind and Door Factory had been established in Anderson. Since then the Factory has been steadily at work. The other day we concluded to visit the establishment and see the machinery at work.

The Factory buildings are located on Depot street, near the railroad track. The gentlemen composing the firm are Messrs. A. H. Osborne, Wm. McGukin and M. A. Monday for Mississippi, where he goes to Snipes, under the firm name of Osborne, McGukin & Co. On entering the building we met up with Mr. McGokin, who took charge of us and carried us through the Factory, showing us the various machines and explaining their operations. To attempt a description of all the machinery most everybody, and especially by the we saw there would consume more time young people. Business was at a stand- and space than we have at our command nery made us feel and realize for the firs time that such an establishment existed in Anderson, and it deserves more than a passing notice.

The machinery in use was purchased in person by a member of the firm, and consequently they have the very latest imbe absent two or three months. Capt. provements. Their planing machine alone Sharpe goes there for the benefit of his cost about $1,200, and will dress about health. We trust his stay there will prove 20,000 feet of lumber per day. This machine is perhaps the largest this side of Charleston Despite the extreme cold weather, there After a piece of lumber leaves the planer, it was quite a crowd of people in the city is not many minutes before it is made into Salesday. There was not much business a door, sash, blind or other desired piece of wood work, everything being done by maehinery, except putting it together. Consequently, with a comparatively small number of hands, the Factory is enabled to turn out rapidly a vast amount of work.

In reply to a question as to what success the Factory was meeting with, we were told that it was almost impossible to keep up with their orders. They are not only selling work in the adjoining Counties of this State, but in the neighboring Counties

Everything needed about a house, such as doors, sash, blinds, mantles, brackets, &c., is manufactured here, and as their business increases the firm intend adding to their machinery.

This is a home enterprise, and those of our people who are building or contemplate building should patronize it, and thereby encourage home industries so as to keep up the development of this country and keep our money at home.

The Anderson Intelligences tells of a lady who is still using the same pair of hair pains that she purchased before she was married, and she has been married long enough to have a daughter grown up. The Edgefield Chronicle says that there is living in that County a lady who has a set of knives and forks, together with a set of cups and saucers, that she has been using over thirty years. As a set off to this we know a lady in Fairfield County, who is so very careful with her household things that she has the same cups, saucers, plates, knives and forks that she has used for over thirty years. She has also a tin foot tub that is as good as new, although it is as old as the other articles. What is the most remarkable of all is that her bonnet claims the same distinguished see, and looks to-day as nive as one of the last Fall bonnets, its shaps and the character of its ribbons being changed once in a while. We need only further say that this remarkable lady is one of the best housekeepers, and the most lovable woman next to one in our own household that we have ever known.

The Fairfield lady can "take the cake," nderson INTELLIGENCER tells of

The Fairfield lady can "take the cake," brother Herald. Any woman who can wear the same bonnet for thirty years deserves a monument at her death similar to the one being built at Washington City to the memory of George Washington.
